Chris Lee fundraiser exceeds expectations

Candidate for NLV Justice of the Peace continues to show solid support

LAS VEGAS—Chris Lee, an announced candidate for North Las Vegas Justice of the Peace Department 2, continued to exceed expectations with a well-attended fundraiser last night.

Lee, who will file for office next week, crossed the $50,000 mark in total contributions following last night's event. "I know you have to have enough funding to get your message out to voters," Lee said, "But what is most important to me is the broad range of support coming to my campaign and people willing to put their names on the line to help me win."

Earlier in the campaign, three groups considered critical to campaign success in North Las Vegas endorsed Lee and promised to work hard for his election. "The North Las Vegas Police Officers Association, the North Las Vegas Fire Fighters Association, and the North Las Vegas City Employees Association were a great help in getting momentum behind my campaign," Lee said, crediting their support as important to gaining financial support.

"As I talk to voters about my background as a deputy district attorney and prosecutor and how I believe a judge needs to be an active community member, I'm able to point to the support of the men and women on the front line of community service as being on my side. It makes a real difference,” Lee said.
